The current sanitary situation induced by the COVID 19 epidemic obligates us to implement exceptional measures in addition to our rules and regulations.

All programs are subject to change or cancellation depending on the future evolution of the global COVID-19 pandemic. Please carefully read the most updated information on measures implemented at the national and international levels before travelling.

11.1 – Presence on campus

In agreement with the current sanitary protocol applied in France, The Institut National des Sciences Appliquées de Lyon maintains the presential format of the INNOV@INSA program. All the courses are forecast to take place on campus, at INSA Lyon.

In the event that one week of isolation is advocated for international travellers entering the French territory, the INNOV@INSA program will be held remotely through online classes during the isolation period. Once the isolation period is terminated, the courses will resume in presence for the remaining duration of the program.

The students will have to comply with the mandatory isolation period if instructed by the French Government.

L'Institut National des Sciences Appliquées de Lyon will welcome international students to spend the isolation period within the Residences/Accommodation units on campus and benefit from all services including catering (food will be delivered to the dorms) and health service.

After the start of the program, in case French Authorities announce a lockdown to all the population for health motives, be assured that INSA Lyon strongly commits to caring for every student on campus for as long as they need before travelling home. INSA Lyon will help and support them at every step (administration procedures, catering, health, socializing). We value our students' safety and health at all times and will support them through any COVID-related situation in France during their stay at INSA Lyon.

In case you catch the Virus during your stay at INSA Lyon, you will be isolated for 7 days under the same conditions as the 1st Week isolation period. You will be attending the classes online. You will join the in-person classes and cultural activities at the end of the isolation period provided you present a negative result of an RT-PCR COVID virological screening test.

11.2 Travel procedures for international students coming to France

Depending on the country you are travelling from, different regulations might apply.

For more information regarding international travels to enter the French territory, please refer to the prerequisites applied, according to your geographical zone. All the information and documents needed before travelling to France are available for consultation here : <https://www.campusfrance.org/en/travel-to-france-information-for-international-students-and-researchers>

And download needed documents depending on your country of origin here : <https://www.campusfrance.org/en/travel-to-france-information-for-international-students-and-researchers>

To this day, before boarding your plane, you need to present a negative result of an RT-PCR COVID virological screening test conducted less than 72 hours before departure. You will also submit to a virological test at the end of the Isolation period.

INSA Lyon recommends to international students to book their plane tickets a month before the start of the program to prevent cancellation fees and financial loss in case they are not able to travel to France due to changing regulations in their home country.

11.3 Refunds and cancellation

The refund policies stipulated in section 4 of this document apply.

In case of a cancellation on behalf of L'Institut des Sciences Appliquées de Lyon related to the COVID situation (lockdown, closing of universities...), INSA Lyon will provide students with a complete refund of all costs regarding the INNOV@INSA program (Tuition fees, activities, accommodation, catering).

The health conditions due to COVID in France and all around the world are subject to sudden changes, and INSA Lyon is aware of the difficulty to make traveling plans in the ongoing and uncertain situation.

Nevertheless, INSA Lyon cannot take financial responsibility for other countries regulations regarding borders and travelling policies. INSA Lyon will only take responsibility for the students' welfare when landing on French soil to attend the program. Students should be informed and aware of their home countries' policies by their own means.

11.4 Sanitary measures on campus

Sanitary protocols on the campus are applied at all times according to the French government's recommendations.
